

Not a well thought out idea.

The public seems quite capable of recording and offering evidence of an indecent occurrence.

I work for an religious station, never going to be a problem with indecency.

Waste of time and money for the religious broadcaster.